

Bio - Denise Bowden

November 2016

Denise Bowden serves as head of the Resource Connectors Program Committee for the Lincoln Hills Foundation. She is retired from a career in high technology most recently as Director of Worldwide Operations for the Global Communications Group at Intel Corporation. During her 24 years at Intel Ms. Bowden lead and was part of teams that introduced technology products and innovations globally. She managed the executive platforms for the CEO and other senior leaders including positioning and creation of global stories. She also has extensive experience driving globalization of budgeting, planning and supplier management for the communications team and developed a world class customer visit facility and program responsible for hosting and training international government delegations and heads of state.

Prior to her career at Intel Ms. Bowden worked at a number of Silicon Valley start-ups and obtained her Bachelor of Science degree from Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo.